GEN. YOUNG CHOSEN CHIEF

Famous Kentuckian Unanimously Selected Commander of U. C. V.

PARADE WAS GREAT EVENT.

Seven Thousand of the Old Boys in Gray Marched and Not One Compelled to Drop Out.

Macon, Ga., May 9.—After creating the title of life honorary commander and bestowing it on Gen. C. Irvine Walker, retiring commander-in-chief, the United Confederate veterans, in their final session today, stampeded for Gen. Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, Ky., who was named commander for the next year. Gen. W. K. Van Zandt of Ft. Worth, Texas, also candidate for the honor, gracefully withdrew from the race, and Gen. Young's election was made unanimous.

Other officers elected were: Gen. Theo. Garnett, Norfolk, Va., commander army of Northern, Va.

Gen. Geo. Harrison, Opelika, Ala., commander of the army of Tennessee to succeed General Young.

Gen. W. K. Van Zandt, Fort Worth, Texas, commander of the Trans-Mississippi department.

GREAT PARADE.

Aside from the election the annual parade and review of the fast-thinning ranks of the confederacy was the feature of the day. Fully seven thousand of the old soldiers of the sixties were in line, and the procession, always the dramatic climax of the reunions, drew hundreds of thousands from all over the south to the line of march.

The parade, including the automobiles and carriages carrying civilians, sponsors of the reunion and members of organizations affiliated with the U. C. V., was more than a mile long, and wound through sixteen blocks of the city's shaded streets. It was stated tonight that not a veteran was cared for by the ambulance corps or emergency hospitals.

We are prepared to do all kinds of high-grade job printing. Try us.

BOAT CLUBS

To Be Organized And Swimming School Needed.

The young men are preparing to form several boat clubs and rowing on the river promises to be a pleasant pastime. There is also an immediate opening for a bath house on the river and a swimming instructor can find pupils ready and anxious to learn all about swimming in deep water.

GRANGE SALE

Fine Weather and a Big Crowd on Hand.

The thirteenth annual stock sale of the Church Hill Grange was held at the Grange hall yesterday with ideal weather conditions prevailing and a good supply of stock on hand, but not as many as previous years. The hospitable grangers as usual served a bountiful dinner to all who attended and a big crowd attended.

TOWN BOYS

Get a Ducking In Swallow Spring Pond, Near Beverly.

Tom Kelly, Golay P'Pool and Albert Ross, who went to Huffman's Mill Thursday to fish, had an unpleasant experience at Swallow Spring pond near Beverly. They concluded to drive across the pond which covers the pike, to get some pop at Beverly, and got off the fill into deep water that came over the buggy, causing them to lose their tackles, buckets, fish and a turtle that was being brought in as a trophy. They got out none the worse except for an involuntary bath with their clothes on.

COLORED BAND

Gave Pleasing Performance at Tabernacle.

The colored band from the Tuskegee institute gave an entertainment at the Tabernacle Wednesday night and furnished the colored people of the city the biggest musical feast of years. More than a thousand attended. Among the heaviest numbers were the "Poet and Peasant," Von Suppe; "Last Hope," Gottschalk; "William Tell," Rossini; "Rustle of Spring," Sincing. One or two ragtime pieces and some old plantation melodies also took well with the audience. The success of the affair was largely due to the efficient and energetic management of Horace Slatter.

Mr. T. J. Tate is home from a month's stay at Hot Springs, improved in health.

212 SOUTH MAIN STREET.

The Confederate reunion at Mecon
Tuesday was handicapped by rainy weather.

Clark is now well in the lead for the Democratic nomination and is still picking up votes. He has carried Maryland and Washington this week.

Much bad feeling has grown out of the defeat of Taft in Maryland by the Roosevelt forces. Boodling in Baltimore is charged, where it is alleged the Colonel's crowd opened a $10,000 barrel. The President carried Nevada and still has a good lead
but the danger now confronting him is that his Southern delegates will be tempered with and cannot be held in line.

Dr. W. S. Higbee, President of the Pennsylvania State Board of Examiners for Registration of Nurses,
reports adversely on the "Philadelphia School for Nurses," which poses as a benevolent and charitable institution and frequently solicits free advertising in the newspapers. He says the so-called graduates receive no solid instruction and are sent out to work in families until they pay for meagre instruction.

ALONG THE INDIAN FRONTIER

Kachins Are a Wild and Warlike People, but Are Most Hospitable to Travelers.

"Hidden in the mountains on both sides of the frontier road are villages of Kachins, a wild and warlike race which causes much anxiety to the Chinese and to the peaceful Shans inhabiting the neighboring valleys," writes Archibald Rose, British consul at Yunnan, China, in an article describing the "Chinese Frontier of India."
"The men are keen looking fellows,
who spend their days in sharpening
their dhas, or long two handed swords,
their nights in drinking and in harrying the marches. The burdens of life are literally borne by their women folk, long trains of whom are met along the roads, carrying on their backs great haskets of grain depending from a strap across their foreheads, while their hands are busy spinning strands of cotton yarn, or weaving a straw bracelet for their sweethearts, as they toll up the mountain slopes. They wear a short kilt, supported by numbers of loose rattan girdles, the lobes of their ears are pierced and distended to carry long tubes of sylly or rolls of red cloth,
and their faces are coarsened by hard times."

"They are hospitable to people, these Kachins, offering a welcome to any passing traveler without question or hope of reward. This spirit of hospitality, indeed, is carried to a point which might almost be considered extravagance. I remember a case at a recent frontier meeting in which a transfrontier Kachin appeared as the complainant. He had accepted an invitation to dinner, dined not wisely,
but too well, and fallen down a precipice
on his way home."

"The result was a broken leg, and,
in consequence, he now appeared in court to sue his host for damages.
The erring host paid up quite cheerfully, and the international incident was thus amicably settled over the body of a sacrificial pig."

FIRST SCORE FOR THE MAJOR

Man of Law Wasted Time in Contemplation, but His Opponent Was Quick to Act.

There lived at one time, in the fashionable quarter of Dublin an eminent lawyer who afterwards came to occupy a position on the judicial bench.
He was a man of high professional attainments but of tempest and irritability. His next door neighbor was a retired major, noted for the eccentricity of his habits. Between the two there was anything but a friendly feeling and they did all in their power to annoy and harass each other. One night, memorable in Ireland as "The night of the great storm," the major's chimneys were blown down. Crash-they went through the roof of the lawyer's house and thence down through floor after floor, carrying havoc in their course. The man of law was in no good humor as he contemplated the destruction, and what made matters worse was that it was the major's chimney that had occasioned the wreck. His mind was actively engaged in devising some process by which he could get satisfaction from his arch enemy, when this mischievous Youth's Companion.

"Swallowed a Word."
Little Mary was telling what she thought was an exciting story about a dream. She stuttered in her effort, gulped and paused hopelessly without completing the sentence.
"Why, child, what is the matter?"
her mother asked.

"Send me back my bricks immediately or I'll put the matter in the hands of an attorney."

The little girl smiled ruefully, and said, "I swallowed a word."

OBJECT LESSON WAS ENOUGH

After the illustration Mrs. Jones Was Able to Understand Just How It Happened.

Mr. Jones believed that no one need ever fall down. It was pure carelessness, he said. Anyone who walked straight, and did not dawdle round,
was in no danger of losing his balance.
He said so to Mrs. Jones many times,
but she only smiled in a provoking
way.

One bitter cold January morning he changed his mind. Everything outdoors had a coating of ice. The path leading from the barn to the house was smooth as glass and slanted treacherously on either hand. On one side of it was an old cellar, where the house had once stood. Jones was coming from the barn, after doing the morning chores, with a pail of milk in each hand. He was just opposite the cellar when—zzzt!—out flew his feet and down he went on his back.
The next instant he had slid in a shower of milk over the edge of the cellar hole, and landed on the bottom
with a thump that fairly took away
his breath.

He looked round in a dazed way for a moment, and then crawled to his feet. After making reasonably sure that none of his bones were broken, he climbed out and went limping into the house to tell his wife.

"Matilda! Matilda!" he called.
"Come out here!"

Obediently she came. "Why, Hiram,
what has happened? Are you hurt?"
she exclaimed, startled.

"Yes," answered Jones. "I fell down that old cellarway. Come here and I'll show you."

Mrs. Jones followed her husband gingerly.

"See, Matilda," he said, as he reached the spot and turned. "I stood right here like this when—"

Once more Jones's feet flew up, and in precisely the same manner as before he landed in the bottom of the cellar. Silence reigned while Mrs.
Jones gazed at the spot where her husband had stood. Then she saw his head appearing over the top of the bank.

"Hiram," she said, "you needn't explain any further. I understand exactly how it was done."

But Hiram's answer was a thoroughly ill-tempered grunt.—Youth's Companion.

BEEZ AT WORK ALL THE TIME

In Many Localities There Is No Closed Season for Those Indefatigable Laborers.

Although bees are apt to turn out on any sunny day, the bulk of their work is done by the first of November and they have retired for their winter's sleep. The beekeeper must now put cushions into the tops of the hives, taking only what honey he is sure can be spared by the bees,
and leave them for their hibernation.
In Florida there is no such work to do, says a writer in Outing. The bees work all winter, and they have as good feed in February and March as they do in July. The orange orchards are alive with the honey gatherers,
and their buzzings blend into almost a roar in March, for that is when the orange flowers are open; but it must be confessed that the honey has a twang, something like the acidity of an orange, and it does not compare at all with that made from the basswood.

Besides the orange there are successive flowerings of legumes of all sorts all the year, every one having a positive flavor and very few of them giving to honey a familiar flavor. Yet Florida is a natural home of the bee,
and honey in the southern states will yet become as familiar a product as cane sugar.

In the Mississippi Valley and elsewhere professional beekeepers carry their hives to the south to meet the coming of the flowers early in the season, turning around toward the north and carrying them to gather the later sweets from later flowering apples and berries. In this way, or by carrying them up and down mountain sides, the feeding spells on clover or basswood and other trees can be greatly lengthened.

If You Were an Expert, What Car Would You Buy?

The time has passed when automobiles can be sold to you on their appearances or claims. This is a day when you and every purchaser must be shown what the car for which you pay your money will actually perform; what it will do. Beware of an automobile salesman who attempts to beguile you with a pleasing story. Tell him to show the goods and prove to you that his cars are worth the money. Find out whether his car is a real car or only an assembled automobile built to sell.

You have a right to your money's worth, but it is up to you to see that you get it. Deeper than all appearances, there are a few expert tests which ought to be applied to every car.

Who makes the car? Is it an assembled car or made from top to bottom by one manufacturer? What kind of a guarantee is on it? Does the manufacturer respect his own product with a real guarantee, or does he want you to take the chance? What do parts cost you and how conveniently can you get them? How many cars of this make are in service and how many are giving satisfaction? Questions like these go deep into the heart of the case, and if you put them rigorously upon any car you will find out with a certainty whether or not that car is worth its price.

We are selling Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars because we know that, dollar for dollar, their equal is not sold in the market today. The records of many thousands of cars in all kinds of service have convinced us absolutely. Studebaker E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars are built to run, and because they run they sell. If we cannot prove to you under the most searching test that Studebaker cars are absolutely the best automobile values in the market, we do not want your business; but we can prove it, and your neighbors who drive these cars will tell you the same thing.

Be an expert when it comes to buying a car. You can, by getting from us some further ideas on real tests of an automobile. Clip the attached coupon and send it to us now because we have something new to tell you which you ought to know, whatever car you have in mind.

Case Reversed.

The Court of Appeals has reversed the verdict for damages in the Christian circuit court in the case of Herbert McMath's administration vs. the Peaslee-Gaulbert Company. McMath was fatally injured by the explosion of a car of dryer at Pembridge. The court says that to hold dealers who buy and sell articles which are dangerous only when carelessly handled, for injuries sustained by those who handle such articles, is expecting too much in behalf of the protection of the public.

Great Athletic Meet.

The University of Chicago is making preparations for the Eleventh Annual Interscholastic Meet which will be held on Saturday, June 8th, and Interscholastic Tennis Tournament of June 6th to 8th.

The meet will take place in the middle of Convocation week and the visiting athletes will be enabled to see one of the finest Universities in the Middle West in the height of its gala season.

Director Stagg has already sent out several thousand invitations to the principal high schools and preparatory institutions in nineteen states. Advance indications point to a record-breaking entry list in this final interscholastic classic of the year. Last year over seven hundred entries were received from one hundred and eleven schools.

Handsome prizes are given to winners of first, second, third and fourth places in the track and field events. A splendid banner is given as a school prize to the team winning the greatest number of points. In addition to these a beautiful loving cup is given to the individual athlete scoring the greatest number of points. Appropriate prizes are also given to the winners of first and second places in the singles and doubles of the tennis tournament.

The University students have always enthusiastically received the high school men who enter the Interscholastic. Many novel plans of entertainment have been devised to make the stay of every high school man in the city as pleasant as possible. An automobile ride about the city and its suburbs will be one of the features of the entertainment of the guests. The night before the meet the visiting athletes will be given the opportunity to witness the annual Interclass Hop in Bartlett Gymnasium.

The meet will be followed by a dance in the beautiful Reynolds Club house.

Many of the prep school men will probably remain in Chicago to witness the dedication of the William Rainey Harper Memorial Library. This building is the finest college library in the country and is just being completed at a cost of nearly $1,000,000.

Business Not Pity.

Surgeon General Stokes, of the United States navy, declares that during the course of a battle the navy medical department must subordinate humanitarianism to promoting the general efficiency of the fleet.

PROCLAMATION!

In compliance with a custom that is coming to be generally observed all over the country, I hereby set aside the second Sunday in May, the 12th inst., as "Mothers' Day." This beautiful custom affords us an opportunity as individuals and as a nation to pay tribute to our own mothers and other mothers as well. Therefore I ask and recommend that the city of Hopkinsville observe the day here as elsewhere by wearing a white carnation. And let those sons and daughters who have absent mothers, perhaps in some faraway state, write to the loved one enclosing a carnation.

Done under my hand this 10th day of May, 1912.

Chas. M. Meacham, Mayor.

There will be special services at some of the churches commemorating the day.

The general observance of the day will be the wearing of a white flower and all have been requested to wear such a flower during the day.

Mothers' Day was originated by Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, several years ago.

Wyatt Edmunds, a colored undertaker of Madisonville, who used to live in this city, was convicted this week of obtaining money under false pretenses, the penalty being from 1 to 5 years. He collected $10 from a colored man to be paid to a Hopkinsville undertaker for embalming the body of his sister who died in the asylum. The money never reached the Hopkinsville undertaker, E. W. Glass, who testified that he had no contract with Edmunds to do the work. Edmunds swore that he did have a contract and mailed the money to him, but the jury did not accept his statement as true. The case will be fought and appealed.

IMPRESSES THE OFFICE BOY

Chicagoan Enthusiastic Over Scheme Which He Claims Is Great Success in New York.

Gerald Jones came here from Chicago. Consequently there are a number of things about New York which he compares with the same things in Chicago—much to the disadvantage of New York. One that chiefly irritates him is the office boy he left here, the Cincinnati Times-Star's New York correspondent writes. Gerald Jones enters the office of a friend of his. A small, cynical boy meets him at the mahogany rail. Mr. Jones declares that he wishes to see his old college pal, P. Norval Smith. The small boy demands a card, and hands him a blank form. "Write here what you want to see him about," says the small boy.

Mr. Jones protests. What he wants to see Smith about is something that he does not propose to confide to any small boy in the world—especially to a small boy toward whom he feels a sentiment perilously approaching hate. He waves his hand. He directs the small boy in a lordly way to take his name and be quick about it, and never mind the card. "Just say Jerry Jones is here," he says to the small boy. The small boy puts back the hunk of gum and sits down on his slippery little bench and indicates with an air of finality that there will be nothing doing until he gets the card he asked for and the full history of Mr. Jones' recent past. If Mr. Jones gets in to see P. Norval Smith it is only by assenting to the terms made by the small boy. Therefore, Mr. Jones has had a fresh set of cards printed for use upon the office boys of his friends. They bear the most two aspiring names—Jim Jeffries, for example, and James J. Corbett and Paekay McFarland and Cut Throat Jenkins, the terror of the gulch. He observes that the small New York boy is not well posted upon the life and crimes of Bloody Hand Ben, the scourge of the Sierras, but every one of them knows all about the men of the ring. "And tell that old fool Smith," he bellows, in the character of Tom Sharkey, "that if he doesn't come out here I'll beat him to death."

Gerald Jones is perfectly happy. He knows how to circumvent the office boy.

WORTHY OF GREAT MONARCH

King of Sardinia's Tactful Manner of Concealing Kindness Done to Impoverished Follower.

The King of Sardinia, Charles Albert, was very kind and obliging to the French royalists who were at Turin. The Duke of F—, with whom he was connected, had an employment about the court—he had been severely wounded, and lost a leg in the affair of the Three Days. The king heard that the duke was anxious to visit the king and royal family at Prague, but that his finances were not favorable to so long a journey. His majesty, therefore, thought of an expedient which would enable the duke to gratify his loyalty, without his feelings being wounded.

"Duke," he said, "would you do me the favor to choose some horses for me in Bohemia; and as your best way will be through Prague, of course, you will pay respects to the royal family there."

As the journey was on the krieg's service, the duke could feel no reluctance about having his expenses paid.

The Overwrought Nerves.

Fresh air will string up any group of nerves not hopelessly demoralized. When you feel that "flying to pieces" inclination overtaking you, jerk yourself to order with the check rein of determination and then, if you cannot regain self-control, stop anything on earth you may be doing and go out of doors. If you cannot leave the home, lean out of a window, or step for a little while on a porch. You will not lose any time—you will, in fact, gain time by increasing efficiency in whatever you may be doing. Sleep also is a great restorer of nerves to a normal tone, and sleeping with all windows open secures for us two nerve cures at the same time. In foods, raw onions, carrots, lettuce and celery, with plenty of olive oil, are excellent nerve foods, all valuable as aids in the good work, but the chief remedy is strong will and the compelling of your body to obey your mind.

Man and the Mammoth.

The skeleton of a mammoth discovered in the department of Pas de Calais, France, measures 49 1/2 feet in length. The head is well preserved, with finely enamored molars of the true Siberian type, thus furnishing one more proof that the whole country was once a land of ice and snow. At a dinner given recently in a sandwich in the Danube an attempt was made to convey an idea of the food consumed by man in the time of the mammoth. Cabbage soup cooked over hot stones, horse ham, roast pork with boiled millet, and turnips cooked in hot ashes composed the bill of fare. The dessert was dried pears and honey.—Harper's Weekly.

Exaggerated Expectations.

"I'm afraid," said Bronco Bob, "that Pluto Pete's ideas of the game is gettin' kind o' warped."

"What's the trouble?"

"Every time he picks up a hand an' finds less than three aces he thinks it wasn't a square deal."

FINE POINT ABOUT THE LAW

Somewhat Curious Problem Has Been Raised by the Decision of a Learned Judge.

Suppose you owned a dog and a neighbor asked the courts to compel you to keep it from barking and yelping day and night, interfering with his business and causing him and his family loss of sleep, and suppose the court handed down a decree requiring you to restrain your dog from barking, yelping and howling, "except in cases of burglary or fire," how would you get about obeying the order?

If you fix it so the dog cannot bark at all and burglars invade your domicile or break in and the dog cannot bark, you may be robbed or murdered in peril by disobeying the injunction that your restraint of the barking, yelping and howling shall extend only to those periods when there is no burglary or fire. For the order expressly limits your right to restrain any barking, yelping and howling aforesaid by those exceptions.

Must you sit up nights and look out for burglars and fires and be ready to remove your restraint of the dog's vocalization when either or both appear?

Yes, you might get rid of the dog, of course, but there is nothing said about that. The law does not prohibit you keeping the dog. All it is concerned about is that you shall not allow the dog to become a nuisance. You have to place it under restraint. But you can at least congratulate yourself that, unlike the trusts, you do not have to worry about what constitutes reasonable restraint because there's not a word about reasonableness in the law. All you have to do is to restrain the animal from barking, yelping and howling, except in cases of burglary or fire. The exception may, it is true, seem unreasonable, but the law is made to be obeyed somehow and it leaves it to you to find out how.

TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING

Duck Raiser Found Pepsin of Considerable Value, But He Has Discontinued Its Use.

Refusing to eat any kind of food offered to them, Charles Koch of Port Chester, N. Y., concluded that his flock of one dozen ducks had a form of dyspepsia and decided to doctor them himself. His method was not entirely original, for he procured pepsin tablets and, dissolving them in water, he contrived to get the fluid down their throats with the aid of a metal tube. Releasing them one by one he sat down in the house to see what happened.

Almost magical effects were noted. Instead of declining their usual provender, they ate it with avidity and came back for more. Scraps from the family dinner table also disappeared in a similar manner. Delighted with the success of his experiment Koch administered additional doses of fluid pepsin. Ducks eggs were one result.

But now the entire flock seems to be always hungry. That has its disagreeable features. Seven o'clock in the morning is the customary feeding time for the ducks, but it is different now. The ducks know where Koch sleeps, and they assemble under his bedroom window and quack in chorus before five o'clock, keeping up the din until he throws some food to them. Two hours or so later they resume their clamor. So it goes all day. Koch is getting eggs, but he is losing sleep.

"Take it from me," he says, "I have stopped the pepsin."

Pleasant Quarters for French Prisoner

A retreat rather than a prison is the new institution which has been raised at Eureux, on the road from Paris to Trouville, says a correspondent of the London Globe. It is oval in form, much in appearance to that of a large castle, and is surrounded by a wall over 30 feet in height.

It is situated on high ground overlooking the town, and to say the least prisoners should have a very comfortable time. Each has his own cell with hammock bed washing utensils and a table for books. The cells are lighted by electricity and heated by radiators. The authorities have not forgotten the spiritual needs of their inmates. The consideration of the ministry of justice for the welfare of the prisoners is seen by an electric bell at the head of each hammock, so that the detained, if he be taken suddenly ill, can communicate with the guard.

The Spider Cheat.

Many species of spiders are interesting on account of their physical construction or their habits, but the most curious specimens are probably to be found in the woods of Sumatra; and these naturalists call, not without reason, "spider cheats." This insect, in order to trap the flies, etc., on which it feeds, hides on a leaf and spins a web of neutral color, making an illusion so perfect that the prey not only does not fly, but seems attracted by the peculiar termination of the web on the edge of the leaf. This is a perfect knot in appearance and gives to the trap the general shape of a miniature palm-leaf fan with indented handle.—Harper's Weekly.

After Thirty Years' Experience

With the Buggy trade of this section we have convinced the customer of the importance of considering

WHAT IS UNDER THE PAINT

on a buggy. True, he cannot tell by looking, but the brand and reputation of the maker is a guarantee of what he can expect in the way of service.

As a result purely of experience a man will now come into our show-room, and ask to be shown a Columbus, a Delker, an Anchor or some other of long tried and proven merit,

AFTER ALL HE HAS SEEN UNDER THE PAINT

We have a beautiful line of new and most attractive work to show you, and beg the favor of a visit.

CLOSING BILL

Of Starnes Stock Company To-night Will Be A Strong One.

The Starnes Stock Co., which is playing a week's engagement in the city, in their tent east of Hotel Lathrop, is playing to fine houses. The company is an excellent one and the performances are meritorious to a high degree. Their plays are selected from the best sources and are equal to those seen at $1.50 and $2.00 prices. The opening play Monday night was "The Straight Path" from the pen of Mr. Barry T. Dyer, one of the members of the company. "The Straight Path" is a Western play somewhat different from the general run, inasmuch as it tells a story with a touch of human nature. Tuesday night's bill "An American Girl" gave the ladies of the company an opportunity to wear several pretty gowns, an added attraction to a play of more than ordinary interest. Wednesday night "The Cattle Thief" held the attention of the audience until the final curtain. Thursday night "In The Devil's Web" a play adapted from the French of Adolph De'Ennery proved to be a winner, and showed this clever company in a line of parts especially adapted to their peculiar talents. Last night they presented their own dramatization of that well known novel "St. Elmo."

The specialties introduced between the acts are as good as those seen at the best vaudeville theatres.

Taken as a whole, the Starnes Stock Company is one of the best of its kind on the road to-day, and they certainly deserve the large attendance they are receiving from the people of Hopkinsville.

The vocal music of Victor Canares, the gifted operatic singer, formerly with the Manhattan Opera Company, continues to be a delightful feature to music-lovers. Thursday evening he sang three numbers in costumes. The Orchestra and Band continue to make good music from time to time. There will be a matinee this afternoon and a strong closing bill to-night.

Contradictory Claims.

The time limit for the selection of delegates to the Tennessee state convention expired Monday, many of the counties selecting their delegates to the convention May 15. In the face of this action the managers of the various candidates are making contradictory claims.

Ex-Governor Cox, manager of the Clark forces, asserts that Clark will have a majority and will control.

Harmon managers claim thirty-six counties

Wilson managers assert that their man has been well taken care of.

N. R. CASE AFFIRMED

Robinson CaseAppealed From This County Upheld On Appeal.

Metropolis, Ill., May 10.—The United States circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati has affirmed the verdict in the night rider suit of J. F. Van Hooser against A. A. Robinson and 19 other defendants in the United States district court at Owensboro, Ky. A verdict for $2,500 for the plaintiff was returned. The defendants took an appeal, hired additional attorneys and fought the appeal.

Van Hooser is a former citizen of Christian county, Kentucky, and alleges that Robinson and the other defendants drove him from his home in the north part of the county. He removed to Cookeville, Tenn., but is now a resident of Metropolis, Ill. Attorney Walter L. Krone, of Metropolis, formerly of Eddyville, assisted by George W. Jolly, of Owensboro, and B. G. Adcock, of Cookeville, Tenn., represented the plaintiff.

The defendants live in the vicinity of Carl and the suit was for $30,000. Van Hooser alleged that he was forced to take the night rider oath and left the country to avoid their threats.

FIRE PREVENTION

Committee Visited the City Wednesday and Held Meeting.

A successful meeting of the Kentucky-Tennessee Fire Prevention Association was held here Wednesday. Headed by President Frank G. Snyder, a score of representative insurance men from various cities inspected the town and in the afternoon met with the citizens in a mass meeting, when they pointed out ways in which the fire insurance rates here could be reduced, low as they already are. The visitors were warmly complimentary of the spirit of civic pride evident on every side and the air of thrift and prosperity that was reflected in every part of the town. They were also highly pleased at the large attendance of citizens, saying it was the largest they had met in the state except at Middleboro.

Speeches were made by Mr. Snyder, Messrs. Hubbell, Drake, Chittenden and others.

Killed By a Drake.

Mrs. Mary E. Newman, 70 years old, was killed at Phoenixville, Pa., by a drake, which had been a pet of the family for some time, but which has lately shown signs of ill-temper. Mrs. Newman was walking through the yard when she was attacked by the drake. In attempting to escape she fell and the fowl struck at her head and face with his bill. Relatives heard Mrs. Newman's cries and drove the drake away, but the woman died a few minutes later.

Another Buckeye Tree.

The Buckeye tree in the Elks Home yard is not the only one in Hopkinsville. A large and more beautiful one is in the yard of Mr. E. L. Foulks, on Clay street, which has recently been in bloom and flowers and foliage make it a very beautiful tree.

Voluntarily Quits.
